5th Grade Edition - March 2013

Here's What's Happening in 5th Grade!!

Music-Mrs. Hill

Fifth graders at Lincoln have been working on scenes for a music video. Students learned a song about multiplication facts and saw a video to inspire them to be creative to show the facts. They got a chance to use the new ipads and have fun. I am in the process of editing the scenes to create the 5th grade video. We will now be working on music form and dissecting music to see how it's put together.

Art-Mrs. Humphreys

Make sure to check out Lincoln Art website if you haven't gotten the chance! In art, we are just finishing up still life paintings and will be starting landscape drawings. The students will learn about perspective by learning about foreground, middleground and background. The fifth graders will draw their own landscape and incorporate those parts of ground. This drawing will be done in pencil with lots of shading.

Notes from the Office

Attendance/Absence Line

An attendance line has been set up for absences in the district. Parents can now call 653-1101 and will get a greeting. They can then press a number to select which school they would like to leave a message for, and then will be able to leave a message about an absence. This will be helpful if you need to call Lincoln about an absence before anyone is in the office at 7:30. You may still call the main office to report an absence, but this is a second option for those parents that are heading off to work early. Thanks for your help in letting Lincoln know when your student will not be in attendance.

ELP - Mrs. Sieren

We are beginning our famous person unit. Many of the students have chosen their person and have begun the task of looking for facts. After they find enough facts and stories about their person to satisfy me, they will write and type their speech. After that step, they will be making a powerpoint presentation to go along with their speech. All of this takes quite a bit of time, so I am thinking that our parent presentations will not be until sometime in May. Of course, I will let you know several weeks in advance so that you can mark your calendars and plan to attend.

Notes from the Nurse

Grant Wood Audiology will be coming to Lincoln on March 4th and 26th to perform hearing screenings on all 5th grade students and all students new to the district. Parents that do not want their child's hearing tested will need to let the school know IN WRITING. All 5th grade and all new students will be tested unless I have received prior notice from a parent. If you have any questions or concerns feel free to contact me.

Notes from the Guidance Office

We have been talking about being accountable during SCRAM time. We discussed how responsible people are accountable for their actions. They accept responsibility for for mistakes or things that they have done instead of blaming others. They do what is required of them. Remind your child that he/she is accountable for completing their homework.

Notes from the Principal

If you are dropping your child off in the morning or picking them up at night, we would request that you park on Monroe St. (the street north of Lincoln) or 6th Ave. South (the street east of Lincoln). This leaves 4th Avenue in front of the school open for buses and reduces traffic.

Raising a Reader- From the NAESP Raising a Reader

Reading is the most important skill your children will ever learn. It's the tool your child needs the most at school, and it is essential for nearly every job and career.

Learning to read takes time and it takes you. Reading isn't something children can just pick up, like learning to talk. It's complicated. Children need you to encourage them to work at it, and to keep trying if they get frustrated.

Your children also need to see how exciting reading can be. They will learn this every time you share a wonderful story with them, or open a book about fascinating people, places or things. It's up to you to show them that reading is far more than just a subject taught in school — it's the doorway to a lifetime of learning, creating, discovering, and succeeding.

Although your children will learn the nuts and bolts of reading at school, they still need the special one-on-one attention only you can provide.

Beyond books, are there other ways to boost my child's reading abilities?

There certainly are! Here are just a few:

- Go places, do things. The more experiences children have, the easier it is for them to read because of all the new ideas and vocabulary they are exposed to.
- Get your children involved in everyday reading — directions, grocery lists, recipes, labels, instruction manuals, and even the billboards and signs along the road.
- Read the newspaper and clip out articles or comic strips he'd enjoy.
- Limit television. If he's interested in a certain kind of TV show, look for some children's books or magazines that are the same style-action, comedy or sports- oriented, for example.
- Play games together that require reading and word skills, such as Monopoly, The Game of Life or Scrabble.
- Books on tape are fun, too. Pause the tape and talk about the story, the characters, or what might happen next.
- Encourage your child to be a writer. Keep paper and pencils available and show how proud you are of the stories he writes.

What should I do when my child makes a mistake when she's reading?

First, remember that all readers make mistakes. If he/she still understands the meaning of what they are reading to you don't need to be concerned. But if he/she is missing the meaning of the sentence or the story, they need your help. Wait a few seconds before jumping in — give them time to correct it on their own. If he/she doesn't notice the mistake, have them reread the sentence out loud. Ask them to listen to hear whether every word fits.

If they're having trouble with a specific word, suggest that he/she look at it to see if it is similar to a word he/she does know. You might also want to see if he/she can figure it out by its context — by looking at the rest of the sentence, and seeing what word would make sense. If they're still puzzled, don't make them struggle. Tell them what it is. It's important to keep them from acquiring the habit of skipping over words he/she doesn't know.

Reading is the single most important skill children need to succeed in school. That's why it's helpful to make reading part of your children's home life every day. The more children read — and are read to — the better readers they'll become.

Have a GREAT March!
